National Level PowerPoint presentation Competition for Women Pharmacists

Pharmaceutical Industry is expanding and is going global. It is competing with multinationals in producing quality medicines and supplying to the world. India is rightly called as the Pharmacy of the World. This industry demands candidates for its workforce who are smart, brilliant, IT savvy, strong, dynamic and extremely professional. All these qualities are not taught in a classroom. Organisations like POWER wish to generate ideas on the significance of these qualities in the Pharma Industry and on how they can be acquired.

The journey for excellence, competence and quality is a journey of challenges. The goal posts are the same for all, but for women, there are more barriers. Our culture puts the burden of home making more on the woman than on the man. Women have to balance their personal lives with their careers and this balancing act requires agility on the part of the women, and it also calls for support; support from family, from institutions, from the government, from professional associations and from seniors in the field. POWER, an organisation of professionals, named “Pharmacists Organisation for Women Empowerment and Research” works towards encouraging and inspiring young women pharmacists to achieve and excel in their chosen area of work. POWER wishes to act as a catalyst and provide mentorship to young women. Organising this PPT competition is an attempt to galvanise the women pharmacists of India into thinking about becoming smart and strong.
